

The City Concert Orchestra

The nationally acclaimed City Concert Orchestra is one of the UK's finest non-subsidised orchestras. They have gained a national reputation for musical excellence and versatility. It was established in the mid nineties but Artistic Director and Principal Conductor Adrian Jackson has performed throughout the UK in some of the countries leading concert halls and theatres, with varied programmes from opera to proms, classics and musical theatre.

Adrian Jackson is very highly regarded both in the UK and abroad as one of the leading conductors and musical supervisors in his field. He received a predominantly classical musical training, where principle studies were trombone and conducting. He has worked with some of the countries most prestigious Symphony Orchestras including; Orchestra Of Scottish Opera, BBC Concert Orchestra and The Hallé Orchestra.

The City Concert Orchestra continually works with leading artists from television and theatre including presenters Angela Rippon, Jennie Bond, Matthew Kelly, Fiona Phillips, Kaye Adams, and West End Stars Claire Moore, Alasdair Harvey, Julie Alanah-Brighten, Matt Rawle, Glynn Kerslake, Anna Jane Casey and many more.

The City Concert Orchestra's overall versatility and outstanding musical flare has made concerts like West & Broadway and A Proms Spectacular a national success.

'Sensational Symphonic Sound' - Paul Marsden

